Heidmar Delivers 1.5 tonnes of Relief Supplies to the Hellenic Red Cross

August 17, 2021 Athens

Heidmar staff today delivered 1.5 tonnes of critical relief supplies to the Hellenic Red Cross. During early-August, Greece experienced one of the worst forest fires in the last three decades with the island of Evia being the worst affected. Northern Athens and parts of the Peloponnese were also affected with catastrophic loss of forests and destruction of property causing significant impact to the local population.

Heidmar recognizing the criticality of the situation and its responsibility to contribute positively to the local community and society at large, donated 1.5 tonnes of relief supplies of basic necessities such as drinking water, baby food, diapers, food, protection masks, antiseptics, etc. The donation was handed to the Hellenic Red Cross in Athens and will be routed to the affected communities.

Heidmar will continue to be a responsible and conscientious community member, because for us, Relationships Matter.
